

OP 4. Faculty Workload, Annual Reviews, Faculty Teaching Performance Indicators, Post-Tenure Review

OP 4.1 Faculty Professional Workload and Annual Evaluations. Because faculty workloads may be varied in the distribution of duties by academic discipline, accrediting standards, and missions of the department, unit, college, and university and because of the complexity of faculty work activities, individual faculty workloads are managed at the department level. Department chairs are required to hold at least one conference with every member of the department who is to continue as a member of the faculty for the next year to discuss the annual evaluation and create a work plan for the next academic year.

OP 4.1.1 Faculty Professional Workload Guidelines. The voting-eligible faculty of each department shall develop, in line with UNC Policy Manual 400.3.4 Faculty Handbook Section 2.6 through 2.10, and in consultation with the Dean and Department Chair, written workload guidelines. These guidelines shall be voted on by the voting-eligible faculty and shall be part of the department's foundational documents. These guidelines shall:

- a. be consistent with the expectation that, in general, a 1.0 FTE appointment equates to a faculty teaching load of 24 credit hours (or equivalent contact hours) per academic year. Faculty members holding additional responsibilities for research/creative activities and service as identified in their annual work plan may have their teaching workload adjusted on a commensurate basis with approval of the Department Chair and Dean;
- b. specifically outline any relevant course load equivalencies for lab, clinical, studio, oversized, distance, fully online or hybrid course.;
- c. detail how other instructional efforts, such as developing courseware or other materials for technology-based instruction, supervising undergraduate research and masters' theses and doctoral dissertations, directing students in co-curricular activities, preparing and equipping new laboratories, supervision of teaching assistants, supervision of internships, academic advising, mentoring, and other activities that support student success, contribute to a faculty member's total workload;
- d. designate the means and extent by which a faculty member's scholarship, research, and/or creative activity in that person's area of specialization, including (but not limited to), working in laboratories and studios, conducting empirical and/or theoretical research, engaging in development or translational work, and/or producing creative works such as articles, monographs, and grant proposals, editing scholarly journals, preparing juried art exhibits, directing centers and institutions, or performing in plays, concerts, or musical recitals, count toward the faculty member's total workload;
- e. designate the means and extent by which a faculty member's service activities that enhance the scholarly life of the university or the discipline, improve the quality of life or society, promote the general welfare of the institution, professional and academic societies, the community, the state, the nation, or international community or a faculty member's administrative responsibilities, (including but not limited to, department chair, program director, and center director) contribute to a faculty member's total workload;
- f. attend to workload equality among faculty.

OP 4.1.2 Faculty Annual Workload Plan. Each faculty member shall work with their department chair or supervisor to develop a work plan for the upcoming academic year (July 1-June 30), in alignment with the institution's workload expectations and the needs of the academic department, college/school, or institution, in accordance with Faculty Handbook Section 2.6 through 2.10.

OP 4.1.2.1 Recording Annual Workload Plan. After reviewing the workload plan for the upcoming year with their Department Chair, each faculty member shall input their workload plan through the online submission form in Qualtrics by August 31st

OP 4.1.2.2 Calculating Percentages, Course Buyouts & Course Overloads. The standard distribution of effort for tenure-track faculty members each academic year is 60% teaching (10% per 3-hour course), with the remaining 40% allocated between research and service. The standard distribution effort for full time special faculty is 80% teaching and 20% service. A course buyout is equivalent to a shift of 10% effort. A course overload may or may not be reflected in a percentage shift but should articulated in comments section of the Workload Plan form. Calculations exclude summer efforts unless otherwise specified for faculty members with 10,11,or 12-month contracts.

OP 4.1.2.3 Mid Cycle Revisions. A faculty member with a qualifying circumstance outlined in the Faculty Handbook (see section 2.10.2) may revise their workload with approval of the Department Chair by January 31.

OP 4.1.2.4 Leave on Faculty Workload Plan. Any academic year during which a faculty member is on paid/unpaid family or medical leave (i) for more than twenty-five (25) class days of the academic year or (2) receives a total teaching load reduction of more than six (6) credit hours per semester, excluding buyouts, shall qualify for a mid-cycle revision to their workload plan (see OP 4.1.2.3) upon their return from leave. The faculty member may request in writing to their department chair that their workload plan remain the same.

OP 4.1.3 Faculty Annual Evaluation. During the spring term, each faculty member shall be evaluated for the calendar year in accordance with the applicable section of the Faculty Handbook (see sections 3.7 and 4.10). The Department Chair or unit supervisor shall provide a written review which shall discuss the faculty member's performance related to the elements included in the annual work plan and shall evaluate each element of the faculty member's performance as either meeting, not meeting or exceeding expectations in accordance with departmental standards as indicated in the foundational documents with specific reference to work done well and suggestions for improvement or constructive feedback regarding performance. The Department Chair shall also assess the faculty member's progress toward the next summative/comprehensive review.

OP 4.1.3.1 Faculty Response to the Annual Evaluation. All faculty members shall be entitled to respond to the Annual Evaluation in writing. That response must be within ten (10) calendar days of the spring conference. OP 4.1.3.2 Leave on Annual Review. Any academic year during which a faculty member is on paid/unpaid family or medical leave (i) for more than twenty-five (25) class days of the academic year or (2) receives a total teaching load reduction of more than six (6) credit hours per semester, excluding buyouts, an annual review shall not be completed for that year.

OP 4.1.4 Faculty Success Plans. A faculty member who has a rating of “does not meet expectations” in any individual category on their annual review shall be subject to a Faculty Success Plan. The plan must include specific steps designed to lead to improvement, specified timeline in which improvement is expected to occur, and a clear statement of consequences should improvement not occur within the designated timeline. The plan should be developed by the Department Chair in consultation with the faculty member. The plan must be approved by the Dean.

The renewal will include updated performance deadlines within ten (10) days of the last day of the paid/unpaid family or medical leave. The renewal may take into consideration completed goals towards the Faculty Success Plan.

OP 4.1.5 Required Training. Department Chairs, Deans, and faculty subject to workload plan requirements shall be required to participate in annual training provided by Academic Affairs. This training shall include information related to the process for submitting annual workload plans and information about faculty success plans.

OP 4.2 Faculty Teaching Performance Indicators. Faculty with teaching responsibilities shall have their teaching performance reviewed annually by methods that include: (1) Student reviews of teaching conducted at regular intervals (at least one semester of each academic year), (2) Peer reviews of teaching including direct observation of the classroom and other relevant assessments. These assessments shall occur as designated by the Faculty Handbook sections 3.6 and 4.9 as well as relevant department policies.

OP 4.3.1 PTR and Tenured Academic Administrators. All Department Chairs, tenured faculty members receiving a total teaching-load reassignment of six credit hours or more in an academic year for the performance of administrative duties, and any tenured faculty member with an SAAO appointment are exempt from PTR during service in that role. In these instances, the PTR timeline starts upon return to the full-time faculty.

Such a request must be made within one calendar year following the end of the leave or course-load reduction.
